

DEATH CALLS DR. HAWKINS ON THURSDAY

WELL KNOWN GREENCASTLE
PHYSICIAN IS DEAD OF HEART DISEASE

FUNERAL TO BE HELD SUNDAY

Dr. Hawkins For Many Years Was
Major Surgeon of the Indiana
National Guard

Dr. Eugene Hawkins, age 75 years, one of Greencastle's best known and respected citizens, passed away at his home on West Washington street Thursday evening after an illness of only a few weeks of angina pectoris. He had been unable to attend to his practice for the past month but during the last few days had improved to a degree that prompted him to hope he might soon return to his office.

Dr. Hawkins was very conscientious in his profession. He took a deep personal interest in each of his patients. His ability and his generous and pleasing manner in the office, on the street, and at home will be missed by those who knew him.

At the time of his death, Dr. Hawkins held the office of Department Surgeon of the United Spanish War Veterans of Indiana. He was also a past commander of the Earl Fisk Camp of Spanish War Veterans. Before the war with Spain, Dr. Hawkins was a captain in the Indiana national guard. He was mustered into Federal service in May 1898. After the war, Dr. Hawkins re-entered the national guard and was promoted to the rank of major in the medical corps. He was connected with the state unit for a number of years, serving with distinction.

Dr. Hawkins was one of the organizers of the original Company I, of the Indiana national guard in Greencastle and when that unit was called to service by President McKinley, he went to Camp Alger. In addition to becoming major surgeon of the First Regiment of the national guard, Dr. Hawkins for a time was acting surgeon general.

Dr. Hawkins was born in Greencastle on the site of the city high school August 6, 1856. He was the son of Ignatius Hawkins, a pioneer merchant, and Sarah Jane (Daggy) Hawkins. He was educated in the Greencastle public schools and high school and attended Indiana Asbury university, now DePauw, for two years, becoming a member of Phi Kappa Psi fraternity.

He then entered Ohio Medical college at Cincinnati and was graduated in 1877 as the youngest member of the class. In the same year he began the practice of medicine at Poland, Ind., at the suggestion of Dr. Ezra Fisk, a pioneer Presbyterian minister, who accompanied him to Poland and introduced him in the neighborhood. After six months at Poland he removed to Saline City, in Clay county, where he remained for three years.

In 1880 Dr. Hawkins married Miss Katie Hickson and two children, Harry E. Hawkins, now of Land-O-Lakes, Wis., and Gertrude, now Mrs. Elmer Crawley, of Greencastle, were born to them. Upon leaving Saline City, Dr. Hawkins established himself at Belle Union and continued there until 1888 when he came to Greencastle and has since resided here continuously. His wife died in 1904 and on August 23, 1905 he was married to Miss Jessie E. Moore, who with the son and daughter of the first marriage survives him.

Dr. Hawkins was a family physician of the best tradition, though always keeping abreast of modern developments in his profession. His induction in medicine was under the preceptorship of the late Dr. G. C. Smythe, in whose office he read, and who later became his colleague and friend. In keeping with the tenets of the early profession he became the counselor and confidante of many of his patients and enjoyed a wide acquaintance in Putnam and the surrounding counties.

His interest in the community was sincere and effective. Though not a member of the Presbyterian church, his mother's affiliation with that sect was one of his cherished affections. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity, the Odd Fellows, of the state and county medical societies and of the United Spanish war veterans.

Funeral services will be held from the Masonic Temple on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The passing of Dr. Hawkins recalls the fact that he is the second member of the local Spanish-American War unit to die since January 1, 1931. Art Williams another veteran preceded recover.

him in death, a few months ago. Since the Earl Fisk Camp was organized in 1914, five other members have passed away. These were George Burke, Fred Peyton, Wilbur Starr, John Dawson and Will Conklin. Of the seven men, it is interesting to note that five of the group died of heart disease.

CLINTON MAN RETURNED HERE

RUSSELL WILSON CHARGED WITH FALSE PRETENSE IN AFFIDAVIT HERE

Russell Wilson, Clinton man, was returned to Greencastle Friday by Sheriff Alva Bryan to face a charge of false pretense filed in the Putnam Circuit court by James A. Bittles.

According to the affidavit, which has been on file here several weeks, Wilson is alleged to have traded a Dunlop tire to Albert Dobbs for a Goodyear tire, pretending that the Dunlop tire was his own when in reality it belonged to Bittles.

According to reports Bittles came to Wilson's aid last January 10, loaning the Clinton man a spare tire to replace one which went flat on west Walnut street. Wilson promised to return the tire as soon as his was repaired, it was said. Instead of returning the tire Wilson was said to have traded it to Dobbs for another tire.

WIFE WATCHES HUSBAND DIE AFTER CROSSING CRASH

LINTON, Ind., May 22, (UP)—Lying on a cot in Freeman hospital here, Mrs. Emmett Lucas told today how she sat helpless along the roadside at the Beechview crossing on state road 67 last night and watched her husband die as she called for help.

Enroute to their home at Sanborn after visiting in Linton last night, the automobile in which Mr. and Mrs. Lucas were riding with Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Killian, struck the side of a moving Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul freight train.

The automobile was demolished and its occupants were thrown into a ditch. They were found three hours later by residents of a nearby house, attracted by Mrs. Lucas' calls.

"Mr. and Mrs. Killian were unconscious," Mrs. Lucas stated, "and my husband was pinned beneath part of the automobile. I was thrown clear of the wreckage but both ankles were so severely wrenched I could not walk. I crawled out of the ditch and sat at the side of the road, calling for help. The accident occurred shortly after midnight but it was three hours before I was able to make anyone hear me. All the time my husband was lying there in that ditch, groaning."

"GOOD TIMES ARE COMING," SAYS SCHWAB

NOTED STEEL MAGNATE DE-CLARES "THAT THE TIDE IS COMING IN"

SHOULD DISPEL ALL FEAR

Chairman Of Bethlehem Iron And Steel Corporation Predicts Brighter
Future For Nation

NEW YORK, May 22, (UP)—The nation "can be cheered by the knowledge that the tide is coming in," insofar as business is concerned, chairman Charles A. Schwab of the Bethlehem steel corporation said today.

Speaking before the American Iron and Steel Institute, Schwab, noted for his optimistic leanings on American business outlooks, told his hearers the steel industry had not cut wages, and would stand by its workmen. While professing not to give counsel to other lines, his speech made clear his conviction that by great efficiency in operation, American wages generally can be maintained. He also suggested there is growing "a more sane attitude" concerning lowering of artificial trade barriers. There is, he said, "a growing ability to recognize that trade between nations can flourish only on a basis of mutual advantage."

"Unnecessary fears of denational people should be dispelled at once," he said, "for those whose fears are an important contributing factor in the present economic situation."

MAY FORCE HIGHER TAX RATE

INDIANAPOLIS, May 22, (UP)—The United States supreme court decision handed down Monday holding valid and constitutional the state's 1929 chain store tax may remove necessity for a further three-cent boost in the Indiana tax rate of 29 cents, it was indicated today.

The decision was of tremendous importance to state aid public schools, many of which have closed their doors, reduced teaching staffs or have been unable to pay teachers' salaries for months. Revenue under the store licensing law would be sufficient to speedily erase the $1,000,000 school deficit, it was reported at the statehouse.

The act upheld in the supreme court decision which reversed a federal court here, will levy an annual license fee of $3 on stores singly owned or operated, with fees ranging upward to $25 for each when more than 20 are operated as a chain.

Effective as of June 1, 1929, administration of the act by the state tax board will require early payment of two and one-half years license fees from 40,000 to 50,000 Indiana stores, according to estimates. The sum already due, to be collected as soon as the machinery can be set up, is estimated at $1,000,000, approximately the deficit in school aid funds.

The act provides that in 1929, school aid should receive $250,000 from the store license revenues; in 1930, $550,000; in 1931, $500,000 and each year thereafter, $500,000.

Until the chain-store decision was made, a three-cent increase in the state tax levy was contemplated, William Cosgrove, assistant state auditor, admitted today.

The 1931 budget increased special levies by $5,500,000. The board of agriculture levy was increased by one mill; the George Rogers Clark levy by 1 1/2 mills, and the state library and historical buildings levy by half a cent. The world war memorial levy was reduced 2 mills, making the net increase 5 1/2 mills.

Certainty of reduction in taxables of the state has argued for tax rate increase, but may be counterbalanced by increased inheritance tax revenues assured by a 1931 act which became effective when signed by the governor. The revenues go into the state's general fund.

Defining "store," the act reads: "The term 'store' as used in this act shall be construed to mean and include any store or stores or any mercantile establishments which are owned, operated or controlled by the same person, firm, corporation, co-partnership or association, either domestic or foreign, in which goods, wares or merchandise of any kind are sold, either at retail or wholesale."

James Shallowater, chairman of the state tax board, said plans are advancing for administering the store license tax, but that it will be some time before forms can be printed, rules prescribed and forces augmented to handle the task.

In the suit on account of M. M. Marshall against A. A. Hauck, a finding has been made in the Putnam circuit court in favor of the plaintiff in the sum of $120.

KIRKLAND ON WITNESS STAND

VALPARAISO, Ind., May 22, (UP)—Crowds of curious adults jammed the Porter county circuit courtroom today to hear the testimony of Virgil Kirkland at his second trial on charges of murdering Arlene Draves.

The young Gary athlete was called as the first witness of the afternoon session to repeat his protestations that he loved Arlene and did not strike the blow attributed as one of the causes of the 18 year old girl's death at a wine and alcohol party.

He faced new questioning concerning the testimony of two of his companions, Paul Barton and Henry Shirk, at the drinking party. Barton and Shirk, who did not testify at the first trial, when Kirkland was sentenced to life imprisonment, accused him of leading criminal attacks on the girl.

Final Concert By Orchestra

PROGRAM IN MEHARRY HALL
THURSDAY EVENING ONE OF MERIT

The final concert of the season was given by the University Symphony Orchestra Thursday evening in Meharry hall. The very large audience that greeted the musicians was most enthusiastic. Prof. Rowland Leach, the conductor has done unusual things with this orchestra. To play as they did last night shows the most careful training. The group has shown steady improvement throughout the year.

Prof. Vernon Sheffield and Prof. Mark Johnson assisted. Professor Johnson sang the "Song of the Golden Cal" from "Faust" by Gounod. The audience insisted that he sing it twice. Professor Sheffield played the Liszt E flat Concerto for piano and Orchestra. The last movement was played over as an encore.

There is no question but that Professor Leach and the members of the organization have done very outstanding things for an amateur group. Those who have failed to hear them do not realize the finesse attained by this group, so good that it approaches the professional.

PRESIDENT PAYS TRIBUTE TO RED CROSS

MR. HOOVER DELIVERS ADDRESS ON ANNIVERSARY OF ORGANIZATION

SHOWS ITS DEVELOPMENT

Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes
Also Speaks On 50th Anniversary Celebration

WASHINGTON, May 22, (UP)—President Hoover last night praised the American Red Cross as "one of the most beautiful flowers of the American spirit and the American democracy."

Speaking on the occasion of the 50th anniversary of the organization, Mr. Hoover said "It represents the people in their most generous, unselfish and spontaneously warm-hearted character."

Women, he said, provided the Red Cross with its purpose, adding that "through the loftiest of all spiritual qualities—charity—it has become the guardian of the people from suffering in times of disaster."

Without going into the controversy that raged around the organization in the last session of congress, the president traced its origin and development in the last half century. He said it represented the people "in the most effective exercise of their powers of organization and self-government. Supported wholly by the voluntary gifts of the people, it is managed by the voluntary service of high-minded private citizens."

Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes also praised the Red Cross which, he said, "represents the united voluntary effort of the American people in the ministry of mercy."

BUDDY POPPY HISTORY

Due to the fact that times are still bad the local post of Veterans of Foreign Wars cut their Buddy Poppy quota to 500 instead of 1,000 as requested by national headquarters.

The first buddy poppy sale ever held in America was in Milwaukee in 1919 by the Service Star Legion, the proceeds to help needy French and Belgian children. In 1922 the V. F. W. held the first national poppy sale to be conducted by a veteran organization. Disabled veterans suggested the name and the V. F. W. had the Buddy Poppy patented. It is the only silk poppy made by disabled veterans.

Contracts were made with U. S. veterans' hospital No. 81 at Bronx, N. Y., and U. S. veterans' hospital No. 108, Northport, L. I., the V. F. W. to furnish the supplies and pay the veterans for each poppy made.

The buddy poppy is endorsed by Gen. Frank T. Hines, U. S. veterans bureau head and also by President Harding, President Coolidge, and President Hoover.

Proceeds from the buddy poppy sales are used as follows: one cent to the veteran making the poppy; two cents to the V. F. W. orphans home; Eaton Rapids, Mich.; one cent to veteran legislation; the remainder stays in Greencastle for local relief.

Our buddy poppies this year were made by Charles Haskell of U. S. veterans' hospital No. 81, Bronx, N. Y., and inspected and O. K'd by C. Huntley for the department of Indiana V. F. W.

Be sure and buy one of the original and official buddy poppies to be sold tomorrow by girls with the V. F. W. shields. Honor the dead by helping the living.

Traction Public Auction June 23

JUDGE RYAN SETS DATE AFTER
FIXING $2,500,000 AS MINIMUM
SALE PRICE

After setting $2,500,000 as the minimum sale price for the Terre Haute, Indianapolis & Eastern interurban line, Judge Russell J. Ryan, Indianapolis, has ordered the property sold at public auction June 23.

The sale will take place at the office of Elmer W. Stout, receiver, in the Traction Terminal building.

Thus far there is known to be only one bidder, the bondholders, for whom the Fidelity Philadelphia Trust Company is trustee.

The Insull group owns or has contracted to purchase more than 90 per cent of the $4,816,000 worth of bonds outstanding, and these can be bid at the sale as cash.

In addition to the purchase price the successful bidder will assume the obligation of settling preferred claims allowed by the court, and should the purchaser be other than the Insull group, with the bondholders. More than $300,000 of preferred claims are understood to have been allowed thus far.

From time to time there will be additional hearings on preferred claims for materials and also some concerning accidents, the latter totaling about $140,000.

The company entered receivership several months ago, and since then it has been divested of all interurban lines except those between Indianapolis and Richmond, Indianapolis and Terre Haute, Terre Haute and Sullivan, Ind., Clinton, Ind., and Paris, Ill. Of the latter the T. H. I. & E. owns the lines from Indianapolis to Richmond and from Indianapolis to Brazil on the line to Terre Haute. The lines from Brazil to Clinton, Sullivan to Paris, as well as the Terre Haute lighting system are operated under a 999-year lease from the Terre Haute Traction and Light Company.

The lines from Terre Haute to Sullivan and Clinton will be abandoned at midnight Sunday, and a petition is pending before the Indiana public service commission to abandon the line from Indianapolis to Richmond.

HEATH SUED FOR BREACH OF CONTRACT

HEATH CONSTRUCTION COM-
PANY DEFENDANT IN $2,500
COMPLAINT

CHARGE CONTRACT VIOLATION

Charge Defendant Failed to Keep Agreement for Installation of Flooring in Muncie Church

A complaint for $2,500 for alleged breach of contract was filed in the Putnam circuit court Friday by the Hachmeister-Lind Company, a corporation, against "William" R. Heath, doing business under the firm name and style of W. R. Heath Construction Company.

The plaintiff charges that on April 11, 1929, the plaintiff proposed to the defendant that in consideration of the sum of $9,000 the plaintiff would install a composition flooring in the High Street M. E. church in Muncie, all in accordance with the plans and specifications prepared by Houck and Smenner, Muncie architects.

It is charged by the plaintiff that the architect's plans called for the special composition flooring made by it, but that the plans cannot be made a part of the complaint because the architects now are in custody of the plans and have not delivered them to the plaintiff although repeated demands have been made therefor.

According to the complaint the defendant on May 11 accepted the proposal of the plaintiff and the architect's thereafter approved the flooring as made by the plaintiff as evidenced by a letter which is made a part of the complaint. The plaintiff charges that it was willing and ready to perform all conditions of the agreement but that the defendant in violation thereof refused to permit plaintiff to install the flooring.

The plaintiff alleges that the defendant without the knowledge of the plaintiff proceeded to install the flooring and by reason thereof the defendant has breached said agreement and plaintiff has suffered a loss in the sum of $2,500.

Goodrich and Emison, Indianapolis, are attorneys for the plaintiff.

Society

High School
Prom Thursday

The annual junior-senior prom of the Greencastle high school, which took place in the old gymnasium on Thursday night proved to be one of the social successes of the year. Approximately two hundred people, including visitors, school board members, faculty and members of the junior and senior classes attended.

The gym was most artistically decorated as the ballroom of a New York night club roof garden. One side of the room had a skyscraper background with the Statue of Liberty occupying a prominent place. The orchestra was in a pit in front of this background. At the entrance was a spirea decorated check room.

After the guests arrived they were allowed to choose their own tables. On each table was a white candle in a black holder. Other appointments were in various colors. When everyone was seated the waiters served dinner. While the tables were being cleared, two dance numbers were given, one by four girls dressed in pajamas, and the other a tap dance by girls dressed as sailors. The tables were moved to the side of the room to allow the guests a place to dance. The feature of the evening was a balloon dance. After the sixth dance a shower of balloons was released from the ceiling. After this the seventh and eighth dance followed.

This annual entertainment was made possible through the cooperation of the faculty and student body. The decorations were designed by Harold Stewart, manual training teacher.

Sponsors of the junior class and this entertainment were Miss Velva DeMoss, Miss Zella Adams and Harold Stewart. General student chairman in charge was Martha E. Rector. Leona Mae Snider had charge of the invitations and printing of the programs.

The delightful refreshments which were in the senior class colors of red and white, were prepared under the direction of Mary L. Talbott. All the miscellaneous tasks were taken care of by Margaret Anne Inman and her committee. Lois Black was chairman of the finance committee.

Other committee chairmen were Mildred Atkinson, decorations; Miriam Bantz, favors; and Mary Gahagan, entertainment.

Hal Rothert and his DePauw band provided the delightful music for the dancers.

Missionary Society Holds Meeting Wednesday

An enjoyable meeting of the W. H. M. S. was held in the Keystone chapel of the Methodist Episcopal church Wednesday afternoon. A short business session was held in which various secretaries made reports of interest and importance. Also announcements for the sessions of the Home and Foreign Missionary societies in the forthcoming Northwest Indiana annual conference which will convene in the Methodist church of Greencastle on June 10 were made. Mrs. W. H. Chandler conducted an impressive devotional service. Her general theme was "Immortality" which is the faith and hope of every Christian believer.

The lesson for the afternoon was presented by Mrs. Guy Black on the subject, "Santo Domingo." The study book this year, "Trailing the Conquistadores" has been one of intense interest throughout and yesterday's lesson was no exception to all previous chapters. Mrs. Black held the interest of her hearers throughout. Santo Domingo is a country small in area but possessed of wonderful resources. The people, however, were unable for centuries to cope with shrewd business men from other countries and they were exploited much to the disadvantage of the natives. A new day is dawning for these people. The Catholics and Protestants alike are following the example of Christ and are helping those who are in need of help for both soul and body. The spiritual message is given along with their services through schools and hospitals. Unity in Christian forces is a strong factor in teaching the people that the teachings of Christianity are full of meaning and purpose for their betterment.

Miss Jean Stewart, a young lady of tender years, surprised all who heard her with her renditions of two lovely violin numbers. She was accompanied by her mother on the piano.

The meeting was then adjourned for the social hour.

There will be an election of officers the third Wednesday in June. The nominating committee is as follows: Mesdames Ostrom, R. Stephenson, and Hixon. The program committee, Mesdames Donner, Northrup and Stephenson.

THE GRANADA

Another silent screen actor is brought to the talking screen once more. This time it is Jack Clifford who plays the role of a villain in Bob Steele's newest Western for Tiffany. "The Sunrise Trail," which is coming to the Granada theater on Saturday, Clifford is immediately identified with the comedy roles he portrayed in the silent westerns, and for his work in a single slugging vaudeville act on the Keith and other circuits several years ago. In "The Sunrise Trail," Clifford for the first time in his work on either the screen or stage is cast as a villain.

"The Sunrise Trail," which stars Bob Steele, features Clifford, Blanche Mehaffey, Eddie Dunn, Germaine De Neel, and Fred Burns. J. P. McCarthy directed.

PETRIFIED TREE FOUND

NAPER, Neb. (UP)—Jess and John Boettcher, farmers living near here, have unearthed a giant petrified tree. The trunk measures three feet four inches through and the petrified trunk stands over eight feet high.

DOWN old and tired of adventuring, "Trader Horn" (Horn) who had traveled on the rivers of Africa before Livingston and Stanley, finds refuge in a flop house at Johannesburg in the Transvaal and comes his living by making and peddling wicker kitchen utensils. One day he called at the home of "Ethelreda" Leslie, famous South African novelist, and she induced him to write the story of his early life. The famous book, "Trader Horn," a best-seller all over the world, was the result of his writing and her dictation. In his story, which is appearing serially in this paper for twenty-one days, "Trader Horn" tells of adventures with savage beasts and wild cannibal tribes. The quaint spelling of "Trader Horn" and his habit of coming away from his story to tell of interesting details of his former life add to the charm of the narrative.

Rubber and Ivory

The Angola left after two days' stay with a very large and valuable cargo. One of the company's steamboats, the S. S. Batanga, arrived at the S. S. Angola left, just in time to signal Goodluck. A cargo consisting of gunpowder, guns in cases, Manchester prints, etc., in bales, also hardware, boots, clothing and salt, etc., was soon put on board and after three hearty cheers had been given by the crew we left Elobey and were soon anchored off the beach of one of the chief centers of the West Coast trade.

The post was in charge of Mr. Jobay. The stores and buildings were large, whilst the dwelling portion was a fine, well-ventilated building beautifully situated and only two hundred yards from a fine sandy beach. The place was fronted by a large garden and was shaded by giant palms and coconut trees. As I was sent to Gaboon to make special study of the ivory and rubber trade, I was put in charge of the Ivory and India rubber store and had for my assistant Ritiga, Chief of that portion of Gaboon city. Most of the natives who came in to sell ivory were Mpongwe, cannibals all, and traveled long distances.

Scars and Daggers Most of them were tall, muscular fellows used to hardships and dangers. All had filed sharpened teeth, were marked on their faces or necks with some distinguishing marks. They were all well armed with guns, spears and large native-made daggers. Many of them wore scars on their bodies of old wounds, wore loin covers of skins and were as wild and picturesque a lot of savages you could possibly find anywhere.

A skin pouch was carried filled with all kinds of smoked meat, including dried smoked rats, which they were very fond of. Ladlike, I was curious to know what they carried for food, and they were not choicy, everything they said was bechit, their name for food, monkeys of various kinds were delicacies.

They also carried a wild bean which they chewed in the same manner as a white man does tobacco. I tried some of it and found it to be first class, it reddens the lips and mouth and they claim that a few of these beans are sufficient to stay off hunger for several days. Each lot as they came in took up separate camping grounds, all old feuds and bad feelings were put on one side whilst selling their ivory.

The Art of Trading Each tusk was weighed, generally the large ones running sixty to seventy pounds, were the most difficult to buy. Each tusk represented so many flintlocks guns and so much gunpowder and so many bags of salt. After the quantity of these had been agreed upon, guns so many were roomed (native term) or exchanged for prints and calicoes and again a bag of salt would be exchanged for brass and copper rods, lead bars, spiral wire plates, brass neptunes, trade boxes, knives, razors, files, various kinds of bowls and other articles always kept in stock.

The art of trading was to get the natives to exchange cheap articles for dear ones so that it kept one busy talking and bartering, sometimes for an hour or more before the prices of the largest ivories were settled on. The lesser ones were easily bought, whilst large strings of India rubber changed hands very quietly. Native-made daggers, spears, a large variety of leopard and monkey skins were a part of their trading stock.

Gorilla-Food These hunters often brought in live animals, monkeys, chimpanzees, and once in a while a young gorilla, like-wise baby elephants. These African elephants are more trouble than they are worth, as it is impossible to tame them whilst the young gorillas died of stomach troubles. They are reared on human milk and myondo, a species of wild shallots or onion they cannot live without, so the natives said.

In fact whilst hunting I found that where you find gorilla colonies you will always find myondo patches. These called men monkeys always like to live in valleys, making their homes where you find the mammoth water vines. These vines are full of delicious cool water and it is really the greatest boon to travelers whilst marching through the forests. I have often seen them over twelve inches thick and full of water, always cool.

The Cedika and many kinds of fine large nuts he is also fond of. You will never be troubled by dysentery whilst using the water found in these vines and the gorilla, being subject to stomach troubles, is taught by nature to use it. The chimpanzee is also found in these glades and is said to breed with the gorilla, producing a monkey called a Colocamba. In all my travels I never saw a Colocamba, although I offered a good reward for a live or dead one. So I put this down to the imagination of some dopey hunter.

Native Doctors One of the most interesting natives of the Gaboon was Old Man

Pipi, brother of Chief Ritiga. He was a great hunter and also Chief Medicine Man, and had some of the most wonderful cures. There were many diseases that the natives were subject to. One was a species of heart disease and Pipi had a sure cure for it. If not attended to in a reasonable time it was fatal. A pain through the body in the region of the heart was a sure indication of this terrible malady.

Pipi would press the painful spot with his finger and watch closely after the finger was released, once he felt sure of the location he drew from a small scabbard made of skin an instrument like a flat bamboo needle; this he inserted two or three inches deep between the ribs he had selected, always piercing from the side, right or left as the case might be. The operation was so skillfully conducted that the patient showed little or no signs of pain, was cured instantaneously to stay cured.

The Old Man also told me of the wonderful medicine men I should meet later on when I went trading on the Ogowe River. The Inliles he said were wonderful doctors; this I found to be true. Natives who had leprosy went there to be cured. I knew one Gaboon chief who was afflicted with this disease. I met him two or three years later in the Inliles which is situated on the south bank of the Ogowe about eighty miles up, and is said to be a famous place for the cure of leprosy. He looked a right to me and I complimented him on his good luck in going there.

White doctors I found out have a lot to learn about these diseases, and it has often occurred to me that some efficient man would confer a great benefit on humanity if he would only risk a little time in research on the Wild River Ogowe. I was cured of bad gunshot wounds and spear wounds by these natives, no white medical man being available at the time. I can show you my first wound on the left hand. As I had hold of the top of the native's gun at the time, and it went off, I received a wound which pretty nearly tore off the thumb. This was cured by hot bark emulsions, and the wound was filled with the white of a cricket. Like a cockroach trod underfoot, the white of the stomach comes out on pressure.

Air Commerce Regulations Require Twin-Ignition...

NASH PROVIDES IT FOR MOTORING

Public carriers of the air must now be powered by motors with two spark plugs per cylinder. Section 3 of "Airworthiness Requirements of Air Commerce Regulations for Engines and Propellers" says this: "Dual Ignition Systems, with at least two spark plugs per cylinder are required on all engines with a power rating of 40 horse power or more."

The same type of power now declared mandatory for commercial aircraft, Nash engineering has provided for more than two years in Nash motor cars!

There are two spark plugs, two firing points, per cylinder, to burn the gasoline more quickly, more completely, more efficiently.

The same motor, with Twin Ignition, instead of single ignition, develops 22% more horse power, 5 miles an hour more top speed, and delivers 2 extra miles per gallon of gasoline!

Just drive a Nash Eight-90 or Eight-80, and you will agree with Nash owners, that Twin Ignition is the most desirable motor car improvement in many years!
